Abstract Narrative

Project Abstract (The Problem): Briefly describe project', spurpose, identify target population, and discuss program components which address the identified problem. Include local statistics to substantiate the need. (Max 1300 characters):

Family Justice Centers (FJC's) are a DOJ best practice model for serving victims of violence. The Alamance FJC serves 1500 victims annually. Approximately 400-600 children accompany victims onsite. Project will expand services for child witnesses to enhance public safety, prevent future crime, and break the generational cycles. Youth and their caregivers will be connected to wrap around services and FJC prevention programming called Camp Hope.

25% of children are exposed to domestic violence, of which 90% percent are direct eyewitnesses. Traumatic events that occur in childhood are called Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs). ACEs include physical, sexual, or emotional abuse/neglect of the child; and household dysfunction: mental illness, substance abuse, incarceration, and exposure to domestic violence. The higher the ACE score, the higher the risk of health and social problems. Children who experience ACEs have an increased likelihood of engaging in high-risk or violent behaviors, anxiety, impaired development, difficulty interacting with peers, academic problems, and substance abuse. Children exposed to domestic violence often repeat the cycle and become offenders or victims as adults. Nearly 17.3% of adults report they had experienced four or more types of ACEs (CDC).

Please identify the partners with whom you will collaborate and briefly describe how that collaboration will occur. (Max 1300 characters) .:

Family Justice Centers employ a multi-agency model, bringing together various government and non-profit organizations under one roof to provide comprehensive services to victims of family violence and their children. This model aims to streamline the process for survivors seeking help, reduce the need for repeated storytelling, and increase collaboration among service providers.

For this project, a full time Child Trauma Specialist would assess the risks and needs of the child, make referrals for mental health, substance abuse, parenting programs, crisis services, housing, and emergency financial assistance. The specialist would facilitate the FJC's Camp Hope program, provide case management for families, and recruit/train trauma informed volunteers to serve as mentors to high-risk youth. Partnerships would include: DSS, law enforcement, mental health providers, parenting programs, child services, and victim services.

The FJC and its partners are committed to providing a Coordinated Community Response (CCR) to complex issues of IPV to efficiently and effectively serve more survivors together. Justice Advisory Council, Victim's Advocacy Council of Alamance (VACA), Elder Justice CCR, and FJC Executive Committee meet regularly to plan, improve partnerships, and evaluate services.

Project Narrative Summary: Please provide additional information about your project application. (Max 300 characters):

FJC's Camp HOPE program focuses on the correlation between childhood exposure to domestic violence and negative outcomes (juvenile delinquency and criminality). Program offers hope, positive opportunities for peer and mentoring relationships, and helps youth move toward positive pathways to break generational cycles of violence. (CHA National Impact Report 2023)
